Major Allied Offensive Gains Up To Two Miles

Tanks, Planes Support Allied Troop Action

U.S. Eighth Army Hqs., Korea, Thursday (AP)—Allied troops of six nations, backed by tanks and planes, gained up to two miles yesterday in west and central Korea in the first big offensive since the truce talks began last July.

Elements of five Allied divisions struck along a 40-mile front that reached within earshot of Kaesong, site of the suspended cease-fire negotiations.

Bitter hand-to-hand fighting was put up by Chinese Reds. Allied troops had to burn them in their bunkers with flame throwers.

The Eighth Army disclosed today that troops in the attack were components of the U. S. First Cavalry and 25th Divisions. The British Commonwealth Division and the South Korean First Division. The other Korean was not immediately identified.

Heavily censored field dispatches and a communique pinpointed the furious action as sweeping northeast from Korangpo to Kumhwa.

The heaviest fighting was northeast of Korangpo, west of Yonchon and east of Chonwon. Yonchon is 35 miles north of Seoul. Chonwon, southwest anchor of the iron triangle, is 17 miles north of parallel 38.

After yesterday's thunderous artillery barrage, British, American, Greek and Filipino troops jumped off against Reds in the west.

The Chinese Reds were hit so hard on the ridge line northwest of Kumhwa that they pulled out last night and gave up hill positions without firing a shot. Previously they had held off Allied attacks there for three days.

Red artillery stepped up the amount of shells sent screaming into Allied positions. One Allied officer said the Red shelling was improved in accuracy.

A communique today reported gains in western Korea but did not pinpoint them or give their extent. Allied fliers over the west and west-central fronts looked for any Red moves to reinforce their assault front line troops. They saw no signs but an Allied commander said it was possible the Reds had moved up fresh troops at night.

By last midnight, the advancing Allies had gained new hill positions in a general area northwest of the Imjin river.

It was the first heavy action for some elements of the new British Commonwealth Division. The division was formed last July from separate Commonwealth and British brigades.

The infantrymen drove forward yesterday just as the massed artillery shifted to targets back of the Chinese Red positions.

The first waves ran into Chinese Red resistance but stubborn North Koreans in the eastern mountains.

By noon, some Allied elements northeast of Korangpo reported heavy Chinese counterattacks. Most of these were repulsed.

Strong Hurricane Threatens Coast

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A hurricane with winds over 100 miles an hour whirled north northeastward up the Atlantic last night, threatening the North Carolina coast.

An 11 p.m. advisory said the storm was 140 miles south of Cape Hatteras, N.C., pushing north northeastward at about 10 miles an hour.

Diamond shoals, just east of Cape Hatteras, reported winds of 50 miles an hour and all weather stations off the North Carolina coast reported very rough seas. The storm probably will pass to the east of Cape Hatteras this morning and continue towards the north northeast or northeast, with some indications that it may turn to a more easterly direction.

Dodgers Bow To Miracle Team; Series With Yanks Opens Today

New York (AP)—In as heart-stabbing a finish as baseball ever saw, Bobby Thomson slammed a three-run homer into the left field stands with two mates aboard in the ninth inning to give the New York Giants a 5 to 4 victory over Brooklyn in the third and deciding game of their playoff for the National league pennant at the Polo Grounds yesterday.

The tremendous blow, one of the most valuable ever struck, came with one down in the final chapter to electrify a crowd of 34,320 which had been resigned to a Dodger victory only minutes before.

Few madder scenes ever have been seen on the diamond than that put on by Manager Leo Durocher's men as the flying Scot trotted around the sacks behind Clint Hartung and Whitey Lockman after he had powdered the second pitch thrown by Ralph Branca, Dodger reliever.

The great blow climaxed the most spectacular pennant dash in the game and sent a club into the World Series which had been 13½ games out of first place as recently as August 11. Giant supporters will concede nothing to their series rivals, the Yankees, after what happened yesterday.

Until Thomson teed off to send the crowd into hysteria, the Giants never had been ahead in the ball game. They had tied the count at 1-1 briefly toward the end, but had promptly been reduced to the depths of despair as the Dodgers rallied for three runs in the top of the eighth and apparently put the decision beyond question.

New York (AP)—The 48th World Series of baseball opens today with the well rested New York Yankees, champions of the American league three straight years, favored to whip the never-say-die New York Giants of the National league.

The Yankees clinched their flag last Friday while the Giants qualified for the baseball classic yesterday with a dramatic ninth-inning 5-4 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers—a victory that came on the wings of Bobby Thomson's three-run homer.

Never since the series was inaugurated in 1903 has a team gone into the post-season classic without at least a day's rest. But then too, no playoff ever went more than two games. It took the Giants and Dodgers three games to decide their argument.

The first game, scheduled to get under way at the Yankee stadium at 1 p.m., will put Allie Reynolds, the Yankee right-handed ace with a record of 17 and 8, including two no hitters, against Dave Koslo, Giants southpaw who chalked up 10 victories while dropping nine.

The weather man has promised warm and cloudy weather for the opener with the temperatures between 75 and 80.

In addition to the 70,000 in Yankee stadium, millions will see the game on television. The National Broadcasting Co. is carrying the series on its coast to coast TV network, marking the first time a major sports event has been seen in practically every section of the country. Mutual Broadcasting Co. will broadcast the games on its radio network.

Ridgway Gets Red Reply On Truce Talks

Tokyo, Thursday (AP)—The Communists today answered Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's proposal that the stalled Korean truce talks be switched from Red-held Kaesong to a nearby no-man's land.

A Communist liaison officer handed the message to an Allied officer at Panmunjom and said it was "in reply to General Ridgway from General Kim Il Sung (North Korean premier) and Peng Teh-huai (Chinese Red commander in Korea)."

The Reds broke a seven-day silence on Ridgway's proposal.

The delivery came at a time when the Allies showed a near exhaustion of patience by exploding heavy tank-led attacks on the vital West Korean front.

Contents of the message were not disclosed at once. But the only matter pending was Red reaction to Ridgway's September 27 proposal that the talks be moved six miles southeast of controversial Kaesong in Red-held territory to a battle zone near Songhyon.

The latest Allied ground blows, supported by one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war, fell almost within earshot of Kaesong.

Today, in response to a Red request, two helicopters flew from Munsan, 23 miles southeast of Kaesong, to the Red checkpoint at Panmunjom. There Allied liaison officers were handed the message about 10 a. m. Fifteen minutes later, the party arrived back in Munsan for transmission of its contents to Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo.

Ridgway suggested the switch in sites because Kaesong, in Red held territory, had been plagued by "incidents." The Allies have denied responsibility for all but two. They accused that some of the rest were fabricated by the Reds.

The Communists broke off the talks August 23 after charging the Allies had bombed the Kaesong neutral area the night before. The Allies denied this charge.

The new development in the stalled cease-fire talks came after Gen. Omar N. Bradley had completed a quick trip to Tokyo and Korea and had left for Washington.

The chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff was accompanied by his wife and Charles (Chip) Bohlen, State department expert on Russia.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told newsmen the decisions to make the appointment a major issue was reached at a closed-door strategy session of the Senate GOP Policy committee. Taft is committee chairman.

"This is obviously a political appointment to take care of a lame-duck governor," Taft said.

Shortly afterward Democratic Leader McFarland (Ariz.) announced that the Bowles nomination will not come up in the Senate until next week. He will set the exact date later.

Bowles, a Democrat, was defeated last year for reelection as governor of Connecticut. During World War Two he was head of the Office of Price Administration (OPA).

Plane Crashes On Highway

Salt Lake City (AP)—A small military plane crashed with terrific force near here last night, causing a major transcontinental highway with a layer of slushy mud.

State Highway Trooper Ernest Pearce said the craft smashed into the ground and exploded, digging a crater which appeared to be about 15 feet deep, 70 feet long and 20 feet wide. Debris was scattered over a wide area.

Pearce, one of the first two officers to reach the scene two miles west of the Salt Lake Municipal airport, told the Associated Press he heard unofficially it was a P-51 fighter with one man aboard. There was no sign of life.

No Details Given In Announcement By White House

Washington (AP)—Russia set off a second atomic bomb recently, the White House announced yesterday.

The terse statement termed the blast "another atomic bomb." This was the first official confirmation that President Truman referred to a bomb when he announced the Soviet's initial "atomic explosion" September 23, 1949.

Only minutes ahead of the official word, the Associated Press had begun transmission of information from other competent sources that the government was studying information indicating the Russians actually made two atomic explosive tests in recent days or weeks — one of them a failure.

These sources said the data already studied indicates the tests involved only standard nuclear fission—not the fusion type explosion involved in the hydrogen bomb.

The White House did not go into such detail. Presidential Secretary Joseph Short concluded his brief statement:

"Further details cannot be given without adversely affecting our national security interests."

President Truman said, through Short:

"In spite of Soviet pretensions that their atomic energy program is being directed exclusively toward peaceful purposes, this event confirms again that the Soviet Union is continuing to make atomic weapons."

Short also said the President had stressed again "the necessity for that effective, enforceable international control of atomic energy which the United States and a large majority of the members of the United Nations support."

The announcement came in the midst of fresh discussions of new American atomic weapons—the "fantastic" weapons which President Truman first mentioned.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Ia.), former chairman and member of the Congressional Atomic committee, said earlier in a Baltimore speech that powerful new atomic weapons were available for use in Korea. He indicated he favored their use but said this was a military decision.

But the President's announcement caused another atomic committee man, Rep. Van Zandt (R-Penn.), to conclude that the Soviet explosion had been known for several weeks. "It explains why we have not used atomic weapons in Korea."

"If we had," he added, "we would be involved in all-out atomic war."

Van Zandt, a captain in the Naval Reserve, said the highest importance could be placed on Russia's second bomb.

"For many months it has been assumed that Russia was relying on the plutonium bomb she exploded two years ago and which is now probably in mass production," he said.

Declining to speculate on the type of the new bomb, he said it could be assumed the Soviets have moved into the atomic strategic field.

"And that includes atomic warheads for guided missiles," he added.

Van Zandt has taken specialized training in guided missiles.

General Drum, Veteran Of Two Big Wars, Dies

New York (AP)—Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, 72, one of the nation's foremost soldiers and later a business executive, died of a heart ailment yesterday at his office.

Drum was chief of staff of the First Army, the combat Army commanded directly by Gen. John J. Pershing in World War One, and issued the armistice "cease fire" order to the American troops.

In the anxious days before the United States entered World War Two, Drum dramatically emphasized this nation's lack of military equipment.

Then commanding the First Army, he sent his troops into training maneuvers with stove pipe for cannon and trucks for tanks. Pictures of the make-believe weapons startled the nation.

He retired from the Army in 1943 and in 1944 was appointed president of the Empire State, Inc., operators of the Empire State building, the world's tallest.

Corporation Tax Issue Compromised

Washington (AP)—A compromise agreement to raise the normal tax rate for corporations five percentage points was reached yesterday by a Senate-House conference committee.

The committee also decided to fix, November 1 as the effective date for increased personal income taxes. Members have not come to terms yet on the size of the increase.

Staff experts estimated the change from the present corporation rate would yield more than $2,000,000,000 in additional revenue but said no firm figure could be arrived at until all differences in House and Senate versions of the bill are ironed out.

Whatever the conferees agree on still is subject to approval by the two houses of Congress.

The conferees agreed to increase the normal tax on the first $25,000 of a corporation's earnings from 25 per cent to 30. This was the House formula.

The surtax rate was left at 22 per cent, as at present, which means the combined normal and surtax rate applicable to corporate earnings over $25,000 would become 52 per cent rather than 47. The tax on excess profits would rise from 77 per cent to 82.

Complicated "ceiling rates" still have to be worked out before the new tax picture for corporations becomes clear.

Red Vietnam Army Launches Fall Offensive In Indochina

Saigon, Indochina, (AP)—The Communist-led Vietnam Army has launched its long awaited fall offensive with two swift tactical gains in northwest Indochina.

The French announced last night the loss of strong points 80 miles apart in the mountainous Thai country west of the Upper Red river.

Three battalions of rebel infantrymen struck southwestward from Laokay, a Red river stronghold on Communist China's frontier, and seized the fortress town of Binhlu as its garrison withdrew 30 miles to Laichau, capital of the Thai Federation.

About 80 miles to the southeast, a column of eight to 10 battalions overran an outpost guarding the Thai country's largest town, Nghia Lo.

The Vietnam leader, Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh, made his newest bid in Asia's second biggest war with the ending of the rainy season. He already has won hundreds of square miles of territory, including vital sections of the Indochina-China frontier, with troops the French declare were trained and armed in Red China.

(The Chinese National government in Taipei declared China's Communists have completed plans to intervene in the fighting this Fall and Gen. Cheng Keng, acting chief of their Second Field Army, will be overall commander. Through its Central News agency, the government said 80,000 Red Chinese troops will help the rebels and Pelping has agreed to train 10 Vietnam divisions and equip them with Russian weapons.)

The United States is helping arm the French and their Viet Nam allies for the showdown battles. A shipment of U. S. Army Garand rifles, ammunition and 100 Army trucks were delivered here Monday for the Viet Nam troops, nearing four divisions.

Hallowe'en Parade Plans Set In Motion

The Retail Trades Division of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce yesterday moved into preparations for the Hallowe'en season, including the traditional parade and awards and a window painting contest.

Meeting at the Penn-Stroud hotel, the division also set up details of a balloon parade and hospitality night in the Stroudsburgs on Monday night, December 10.

Balloons will not be of the toy variety. Included will be such monsters as a 125-foot dragon, a 100-foot-long train, giant Santa Claus figures.

The parade will take an hour to pass a given spot, and will be about a mile long. Some 200 local boys and girls will put on hi-jinks in clown suits.

Both of these events will be directed strictly by business people of the community.

There will be a mass meeting of merchants next week to set up the fine details of the community-wide projects.

Stroudsburg Council Moves To Halt Speeding In Borough

Truck, Bus Companies To Be Notified

Stroudsburg Council last night made the initial move to bring about an end to speeding on N. Ninth St., West Main St. and Park Ave. particularly, by writing to bus companies and Pennsylvania Motor Truck federation.

The letter, to be composed by Attorney George T. Robinson, solicitor, will ask officials of Greyhound and Martz lines and PMTF to have their drivers keep within the 35-mile-an-hour speed limits in the borough wherever the speed limits signs are posted.

Warren Mikels, representing Monroe County Automobile Dealers, appeared before council and suggested the letter be written. He said the dealers not only wanted the letter, but if compliance did not result "only a couple of arrests" will be necessary to bring an end to the condition.

While the whole matter is strictly a police matter, under Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris, and especially the enforcement angle, council decided that a letter from that body would do no harm.

Insofar as arrests were concerned Harris said there were insufficient police to maintain strict enforcement and that arrests of trucks on other occasions for other matters, such as leaving motors running, failed to break up that practice. He also emphasized that the problem was a police matter.

After discussion relative to plans for expansion of the sewerage treatment works and the problem of Holland Thread Co., council decided to offer the thread company an opportunity to hook on the system for treatment of the effluent from that plant under certain conditions as to rental, capital contribution to cover required changes in the plant and under pre-treatment conditions established by the engineers.

Robert Minch, representing Atlantic Refining Co., asked for no parking near entrances to that company's service station on Park Ave. near Barry St.

Chief of Police James F. McConnell advised council there should be no parking from Barry to Seventh St. bridge along the east side of Park Ave. Council approved his suggestion and signs will be erected.

Engineer Edward C. Hess was authorized to explore and make necessary repairs and changes on sewer lines coming to manhole junctions at Fifth and Ann Sts.

The council formally elected Russell LaBar, 516 Main St., Stroudsburg, to the police force. LaBar passed required civil service examinations.

At the same time council authorized advertising for other men to provide a waiting list. Approval was also given to hiring another man, eliminating all special police, and placing police on a five-day week to coincide with industry and business working conditions.

The SPCA and a home extension group were granted use of a room in Municipal building for meetings. Settlement was made with Tax Collector John Kitchener on special duplicates. He collected some $4,000 in taxes on these duplicates and was exonerated for the balance.

Congressman Walter Considers Running For U. S. Senate -- If Myers Is Not A Candidate

Washington, CP—Democratic Representatives Walter and Flood are considering running for the Senate next year but the whole thing depends on the plans of former Sen. Francis J. Myers (D-Pa.).

In separate interviews, both Flood and Walter admitted they had been approached concerning their availability as candidates in the Senate race but each man emphasized he would not run against Myers.

Myers, a Philadelphia attorney, has not said whether he will try to return to the Senate where he was assistant Democratic leader before his defeat last year by Republican Senator Duff, former governor.

In Philadelphia, efforts to reach Myers for comment were unsuccessful. His secretary said he was away on business.

"I've been approached on the subject of a Senate race," Flood confided, "but it is a little early to make a decision."

The Wilkes-Barre lawyer who is serving his third term in the House added:

"However, if my good friend, former Senator Myers, is a candidate you can be sure I will support him wholeheartedly. I am sure he can be elected in 1952."

Friends of Flood say he has been devoting a lot of thought to the Senate ever since his re-election to the House last year. Luzerne county, his congressional district, is normally Republican, but Flood received more votes than did Governor Fine, a Republican and Luzerne county resident.

Walter, a lawyer and banker from Easton, is serving his 10th term in the House. He is dean of all Pennsylvania members of Congress. That seniority has placed Walter in a position of influence in the House and he is frank to admit that he would not like to lose it.

Only 15 Democrats in the House outrank him in seniority.

"I've been approached numerous times," Walter said regarding his Senate plans, "but my seniority should not be treated lightly. The

Johnstown Man New Governor Of Kiwanians

Pittsburgh (CP)—The Pennsylvania district Kiwanis yesterday elected Daniel Auchenbach of Johnstown district governor and pledged all-out support to the fight against Communism and organized crime.

Auchenbach succeeds Ernest L. Bertram of Lancaster who becomes immediate past governor.

Other officers chosen are Leslie M. Weigel of Lancaster, secretary, and MacDonald Benton of Norristown, treasurer.

The pledge to fight Communism was made when the district delegates adopted a resolution at the final session of the 34th annual convention.

The resolution calls on the 12,000 business and professional men who are members to carry out "in policy and principal" the national organization's pledge to fight crime and Communism.

Allen Roth, Orchestra Leader On Berle Show, Takes Lions Club Behind Scenes Of Rehearsals

McIlhenny—Every yak in a TV laugh show is sweated out of factory-grind rehearsals, West End Lions learned here last night.

Example cited by Allen Roth, Stroudsburg RD 3, was the Milton Berle show, Roth leads Berle's band, is the boss' best booster.

For each Berle show, in addition to performances, more than 100 other technicians, musicians, clerks, cameramen, clog the set, trip over each other in the backstage.

And none of it is very funny, Roth said. Dancers are depressed.

Gagmen are gloomy. Writers are wrecks. Through it all wanders Berle, doing "ninety-nine and nine-tenths of the work."

He's one of the few director-producers in the business, Roth said, if not the only one. Music, too, comes straight from the master's mouth. He whistles or hums. Some one else writes it down.

The tough spots are Berle's monologues. To get the audience in the "proper mood," Roth said, the funnyman has to stand there talking until he gets a laugh.

If the audience is frigid, it sometimes takes seven minutes or more to warm them up. Stop-watch schedules worked up at rehearsal go out the window. Sometimes technicians feel like following.

Roth said it's hard for up-coming young musicians to break in on the shows. With salaries what they are for top-drawer musicians, a few mistakes by a new-comer could add up to minutes of overtime for corrections . . . and hundreds of dollars extra expense.

Baseball Madness

These are the days when baseball madness seizes the countryside, and if labor and management alike go through their afternoon chores with one ear attuned to a radio signal or eyes riveted on TV, who is to blame them?

The most dramatic National League race in all history was fought out yesterday afternoon. No Hollywood script writer could begin to put into print the smashing climax of that ninth inning homer of Bobby Thomson which shot Du-rocher's "Cinderella Team" to their first pennant since 1937.

Whether the man-eating Yankees would win the series was only of academic interest to some of our readers, but it seemed difficult to find such apathetic individuals.

All national woes have gone by the board and will stay that way until the World Series is decided through this annual baseball binge. Which is one of the reasons we have such a great nation.

Banking Inspections

Report of another embezzlement of bank funds, this time in Indiana County, brings up the question of bank inspections and whether they themselves do not require a review.

Fortunately, none of the seven cases of alleged bank shortages in the western Pennsylvania area has resulted in any loss to depositors, since the banks are all covered by Federal Deposit Insurance, but it is of considerable interest to every customer that all of the embezzlements took place over a period of years.

The situation brings grave concern not only to depositors but to conscientious bank officials who obviously do not enjoy discovering that one of their most trusted associates has been converting funds to his own use. Doubtless it is impossible for any bank to be completely proof against a dishonest employee, and it is to the credit of most institutions that they keep constant and continuing check on their workers.

Yet this recent spate of embezzlements indicates that there must be something wrong with the inspections, whether they be by the State Banking department, the district Federal Reserve Bank, or the FDIC. Certainly the situation has developed to a point where a study of the system of inspections is called for, in order that there be no diminution in the public confidence so properly merited by the majority of the financial institutions in this and other states.

The cupid of genus homo is not any less in a bank than in any other establishment, so it is to protect the tempted against their own weakness that a review of the inspection routine is indicated.

Fifth Grade Sense

Our new Secretary of Defense, Robert A. Lovett, was on the receiving end of a nice compliment the other day regarding his concern for a dollar.

The kind words came from Rep. John Taber, New York Republican and one of the tightest men in Congress when it comes to saving tax money. Said Mr. Taber:

"That guy Lovett makes sense. He understands fifth grade arithmetic which is very rare in Washington."

As we recall, fifth graders are taught to add small sums. That's something the spend-a-billion statesmen have forgotten. If they ever knew.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A persistent salesman of accident insurance sneaked past all the barriers to my private office the other day and brought to mind a long-forgotten routine of those wonderful comedians, Weber and Fields. Weber was trying to sell an accident policy to an obdurate Fields. "Vot do I want mit nonsense like dot?" grumbled Fields. "I never had an accident in my life."

"Our friend Schmidt made der same boast," declared Weber, "but I sold him a ten-thousand-dollar policy anyway. Der very next day, mind you, Schmidt got run over and had both arms and legs cut off. 'I know,' scoffed Fields, 'but Schmidt was vun of der lucky vuns.'"

Spyros Skouras, one of the headmen of Twentieth Century-Fox, is an outstanding American today, but he never lost his rich Greek accent. Introducing Skouras at a convention one day, George Jessel observed, "Spyros arrived here from Athens over forty years ago, but judging by the way he speaks English, he doesn't land till next Tuesday."

For a film producer, Nasht, who has pink cheeks, black hair, and popping brown eyes, is a comparative youngster—just 28. He got the notion of becoming a picture-maker while viewing "Mrs. Miniver" in wartime England. This movie about one woman's war tribulations made him weep. He wanted eventually to produce films like it, he said—"emotionally interesting, with something to say."

During that time Nasht was an OSS man doing "moral" work—which seems to have meant undermining enemy morale in Lisbon, he posed as an American newspaper cameraman. "Don't even know how to operate a $5 box camera," he told me with a grin.

He helped slip underground newspapers into Germany. In Lisbon bars and shops he spread reports that Goering or other Nazi big shots had slid from favor. Other cloak-and-dagger stuff led to the jailing of officials in German towns. The OSS, to weaken enemy morale, let it be known that they were smuggling their money out of the country.

After the war Nasht was a "Newsweek" correspondent in Argentina. As a result of his story on the disappearance of two colonels, he said, he "got kicked out by Mr. Peron." In New York he became a press agent, then worked into producing live TV shows. Since then he has produced 30 musical films in London and Paris. Nearly all are showing on American TV networks and stations. In other lands they're shown in theaters.

There is one other noteworthy fact in regard to the A. F. of L. purge list. None of the so-called "enemies of labor" are members of the Senate subcommittee investigation. 1951 elections. That subcommittee is supposed to be investigating the campaign in Ohio. Both the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. unloaded hundreds of thousands of dollars and a lot of smear literature in an effort to defeat Taft. Subcommittee investigators have been in Ohio for several months now, but there is a noticeable lack of enthusiasm by the subcommittee to start public hearings.

This is in contrast to the allacidity displayed when somebody suggested an investigation of the Maryland campaign. The reason may be that there were no labor leader's toes to step on in Maryland, while Ohio is littered with them. And then too, 1952 is just around the corner. Since Taft is a prominent GOP presidential candidate, administration democrats on the subcommittee are not hard put to visualize the usefulness of anything they can uncover on Taft in Ohio. And A. F. of L. bosses will be grateful

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

The word, news, gives the impression that what is reported has something to do with the new, the exceptional, the novel, the different. Thus, some believe that a divorce is better news than a marriage because it is more startling or that a picture of a half-clothed starlet is terrifically interesting and exciting. No such photograph will attract the permanent interest nor the unfathomable beauty of Whistler's "Mother."

We have also been taught in this trade that names make news, that the more names one mentions, the more interesting the story. In fact, some newsworthy characters are so anxious to be mentioned that even unfavorable comment is preferable to none at all. They hire press agents to make certain that they are mentioned, no matter why.

Yet, there is much more to report upon than the mere listing of names. What, for instance, is so important about the silly gal who so badly manages her life that she runs through three or four marriages in a decade? Perhaps she would stay put if she were not encouraged in her escapades by being made a celebrity for her sins.

This, of course, is a matter of opinion on which many differ, but what I am searching for is news which explains to my son and yours why their world is so confused, why years of their youth have been captured by war. Why must they be at war or ready to be called up again? Who got them into this? That is the reporter's job these days.

There are dynamic forces that move swiftly and decisive events that require analysis and understanding. For instance, Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, looking out upon our western world, once said:

"There is a general weakening of moral fiber. One gains the impression that the great fund of moral strength which has been handed down from the tears and labors of the ages is not being creatively replenished. There is thus unregeneration, a terrifying wastage of substance. Quality is in eclipse. Quantity and size dominate..."

Our universities and colleges face this problem, both as a cultural and financial one, at this time. Many of them permitted themselves the luxury of the GI Bill of Rights, which was as much a subsidy for schools as it provided aid to former soldiers. They expanded to accept increased attendance. They took on additional staff, often not of the quality and maturity of those who had slowly established themselves as scholars by achievement in general or particular fields.

In the lower schools, the degeneration of quality set in long before in the growth of what is generally called progressive education and in the elimination of such specific subjects as history, geography and civics, the cumulative subject called the social sciences having been substituted.

But the very worst defect in general school education, from the standpoint of quality, is the assumption that children must remain at school, often up to 18 years of age, whether they are able to absorb knowledge or not, and that none may be held back, no matter how stupid, first because it is anti-social to punish the lazy, the idle and the incompetent, and secondly because unless whole classes are pushed ahead, there can be no seats for the oncoming classes.

Thus, for education is substituted

What went on in Maryland is child's play compared to what happened in Ohio. Labor leaders spent millions there. Not even Senator McCarthy had that kind of money in Maryland.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, October 3 — The American Federation of Labor has published its 1952 purge list of U. S. Senators. It will stand considerable analysis.

Fourteen Republicans and five Democrats are listed. All are described as "enemies of labor." I doubt if the A. F. of L. expects anybody to believe this. What it really means is that the 19 are considered enemies of the political ambitions of several labor bosses currently in office as heads of the A. F. of L. Being so labeled isn't likely to frighten any of the 19 senators.

Sensor Robert A. Taft managed to remain unruined in the face of a similar accolade when he won re-election in Ohio last year. He proved that the word "labor" can be sliced up in several ways. Labor bosses camouflage their own pet likes and dislikes by lumping them under the word "labor." Taft's victory proved that one other segment of labor — the working men and women — often have political preferences that differ from their union leaders. Taft was the backstop for all the vicious cruelties that these same union leaders could toss his direction, but a majority of union members helped vote him back in office.

Nothing as vicious as what took place in Ohio against Taft is expected in 1952 from Federation spokesmen. This year A. F. of L. spokesmen are cleverly cautious. They say "there is an excellent chance of defeating several" of the 19 named. Which technically is true, but there is a trick involved.

The Federation's purge list contained the names of these five Democrats: O'Connor of Maryland, Byrd of Virginia, Connally of Texas, Stennis of Mississippi, and Holland of Florida.

If there is a surprise in the listing, Connally is it. He has been a White House errand boy and administration wheel horse on lavish spending at home and abroad for years. Senators who do this usually benefit from the full-blown oratory and friends of labor bosses at election time, even if some of the senators have never actually appeared in political coveralls.

As it now stands, a good half of Texas is already sore at Connally so it looks as if he would get licked. It's here that A. F. of L. bosses get tricky with their purge list. Connally found out about the big peeve in Texas over his antics and reversed his field. He even started finding fault with Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Next he criticized Federal spending for foreign aid. Texas reversed his field. So the way it looks from here, A. F. of L. bosses won't have a thing to do with it if Connally gets turned out to pasture.

There is one other noteworthy fact in regard to the A. F. of L. purge list. None of the so-called "enemies of labor" are members of the Senate subcommittee investigation. 1951 elections. if their Ohio anties are never aired publicly.

What went on in Maryland is child's play compared to what happened in Ohio. Labor leaders spent millions there. Not even Senator McCarthy had that kind of money in Maryland.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, October 3 — The American Federation of Labor has published its 1952 purge list of U. S. Senators. It will stand considerable analysis.

Fourteen Republicans and five Democrats are listed. All are described as "enemies of labor." I doubt if the A. F. of L. expects anybody to believe this. What it really means is that the 19 are considered enemies of the political ambitions of several labor bosses currently in office as heads of the A. F. of L. Being so labeled isn't likely to frighten any of the 19 senators.

Sensor Robert A. Taft managed to remain unruined in the face of a similar accolade when he won re-election in Ohio last year. He proved that the word "labor" can be sliced up in several ways. Labor bosses camouflage their own pet likes and dislikes by lumping them under the word "labor." Taft's victory proved that one other segment of labor — the working men and women — often have political preferences that differ from their union leaders. Taft was the backstop for all the vicious cruelties that these same union leaders could toss his direction, but a majority of union members helped vote him back in office.

Nothing as vicious as what took place in Ohio against Taft is expected in 1952 from Federation spokesmen. This year A. F. of L. spokesmen are cleverly cautious. They say "there is an excellent chance of defeating several" of the 19 named. Which technically is true, but there is a trick involved.

The Federation's purge list contained the names of these five Democrats: O'Connor of Maryland, Byrd of Virginia, Connally of Texas, Stennis of Mississippi, and Holland of Florida.

If there is a surprise in the listing, Connally is it. He has been a White House errand boy and administration wheel horse on lavish spending at home and abroad for years. Senators who do this usually benefit from the full-blown oratory and friends of labor bosses at election time, even if some of the senators have never actually appeared in political coveralls.

As it now stands, a good half of Texas is already sore at Connally so it looks as if he would get licked. It's here that A. F. of L. bosses get tricky with their purge list. Connally found out about the big peeve in Texas over his antics and reversed his field. He even started finding fault with Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Next he criticized Federal spending for foreign aid. Texas reversed his field. So the way it looks from here, A. F. of L. bosses won't have a thing to do with it if Connally gets turned out to pasture.

There is one other noteworthy fact in regard to the A. F. of L. purge list. None of the so-called "enemies of labor" are members of the Senate subcommittee investigation. 1951 elections. That subcommittee is supposed to be investigating the campaign in Ohio. Both the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. unloaded hundreds of thousands of dollars and a lot of smear literature in an effort to defeat Taft. Subcommittee investigators have been in Ohio for several months now, but there is a noticeable lack of enthusiasm by the subcommittee to start public hearings.

This is in contrast to the allacidity displayed when somebody suggested an investigation of the Maryland campaign. The reason may be that there were no labor leader's toes to step on in Maryland, while Ohio is littered with them. And then too, 1952 is just around the corner. Since Taft is a prominent GOP presidential candidate, administration democrats on the subcommittee are not hard put to visualize the usefulness of anything they can uncover on Taft in Ohio. And A. F. of L. bosses will be grateful that a divorce is better news than a marriage because it is more startling or that a picture of a half-clothed starlet is terrifically interesting and exciting. No such photograph will attract the permanent interest nor the unfathomable beauty of Whistler's "Mother."

We have also been taught in this trade that names make news, that the more names one mentions, the more interesting the story. In fact, some newsworthy characters are so anxious to be mentioned that even unfavorable comment is preferable to none at all. They hire press agents to make certain that they are mentioned, no matter why.

Yet, there is much more to report upon than the mere listing of names. What, for instance, is so important about the silly gal who so badly manages her life that she runs through three or four marriages in a decade? Perhaps she would stay put if she were not encouraged in her escapades by being made a celebrity for her sins.

This, of course, is a matter of opinion on which many differ, but what I am searching for is news which explains to my son and yours why their world is so confused, why years of their youth have been captured by war. Why must they be at war or ready to be called up again? Who got them into this? That is the reporter's job these days.

There are dynamic forces that move swiftly and decisive events that require analysis and understanding. For instance, Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, looking out upon our western world, once said:

"There is a general weakening of moral fiber. One gains the impression that the great fund of moral strength which has been handed down from the tears and labors of the ages is not being creatively replenished. There is thus unregeneration, a terrifying wastage of substance. Quality is in eclipse. Quantity and size dominate..."

19 Line Material Company Departments Report Perfect Enrollment In Charity Fund

Nineteen departments of the sprawling Line Material Co. plant, living up to past records which are now traditional in their support of Community Chest and other agencies, have signed up 100 per cent for the Good Neighbor plan of providing a charity fund controlled exclusively by employees.

These 19 departments and their personnel have driven over-all plant participation of the big firm to 94 per cent participation of employees.

So successful has the effort been to date on the Good Neighbor plan that every effort will be made to move the Line Material employee participation to 100 per cent before the project goes into operation Saturday.

Basis of the Good Neighbor theory, briefly, involves agreement by employees to work a half day on a Saturday. They will be paid time and one-half for this effort and all the money will go directly into the Line Material Charity fund.

Employees not eligible for time and one-half will work the half day and contribute a full day's pay. The firm will give a full day's profit to charities, exclusive of the employee-charity fund.

Employees, operating through their own committee, will have complete control of allocations from the fund and direct its management. Each employee-participant will receive a membership card containing a directive to all solicitors to go to the Line Material Charity fund for consideration.

Departments which right now have every member signed to the plans are:

Accounting, cost, market & sales, material control, order-billing, payroll, personnel, planning & scheduling, purchasing, stenographic, time study traffic, industrial engineering, administrative, inspection, shipping, welding, stores.

Cement Block Walls Gain In Favor

Already, the choice of six in every 100 homeowners, cinder or concrete block exterior walls are expected to double in popularity in the next year or two as a result of high labor costs in the handling of other materials and the development of new types of blocks, the Construction Research Bureau, in New York clearing house for building information predicts. A recent survey showed that 12 per cent of prospective homeowners favor concrete or cinder block.

Among the new developments are blocks with interlocking ends that need no mortar, and varicolored concrete "bricks" which, when laid in a wall, have the appearance of cut stone. The lowest cost masonry wall is made of standard hollow concrete or cinder blocks, 12x8x7 1/2 inches, and covered with stucco. Almost any designed color can be obtained from pigments mixed into the stucco and this eliminates the need for painting.

It is essential that a concrete or cinder block house be insulated, the Construction Research Bureau points out.

Schedule Purchase Of Storm Windows

If funds are limited for storm windows, schedule the window installation over a period of years, but proceed in this order:

First—For rooms hard to heat.
Second—For rooms exposed to the west and north, since the prevailing winds here are from the west.
Third—For rooms used most.

You may schedule these installations more rapidly than once a year. Storm sash can be bought and fitted at any season, and can be stored, of course, when not in use.

If your budgeting can see its way to buy a window or two a month, schedule it so, and get your house equipped with these comfort-making and dollar-saving facilities.

Questions And Answers

The walls of the bathroom in our house have always been painted light blue. We would enjoy a change, either in paint or wallpaper. Woodwork of the room is white; the floor is painted tan and I have red-and-white gingham curtains and a blue bath mat which I would like to continue to use. Please suggest colors for the walls, ceiling and accessories. T. J.

If you repaint the walls, I would suggest yellow with a white ceiling. Accessories could carry out red, yellow and blue combination. An attractive wallpaper would be a light-house and sailboat pattern in red and black on a white background.

What do you suggest for draperies, slipcovers and wallpaper for my living room? The rug is pale green with a gray scroll pattern and the woodwork is eggshell.

I suggest a wallpaper patterned in gray and eggshell on a dusty rose background, green draperies and slipcovers in rose, gray, plum and green.

The wallpaper in my bedroom is pale yellow with pink and rose flowers and small green leaves. A double dresser, bed and two night tables are blond mahogany. I have two Chinese lamps with deep pink shades, on the dresser and white nylon glass curtains at the window. What would you suggest for draperies, cornice, bedspread and scatter rugs?

Green would be a good color for your bedroom draperies with the cornice painted to match the yellow of the wallpaper. For the bedspread, I suggest yellow with a green trim and for the scatter rugs, deep rose.

Our living room is 12x6 feet on the northeast side of the house. The carpet is an 18th century pattern with a gray background, the two-piece living room set is cedar color and a drum table is mahogany. I would like suggestions as to colors for the walls, draperies and another chair.

For the walls and woodwork, I suggest chartreuse, for the draperies, a pattern in cedar, green and yellow on a natural background, and for another chair, green.

What kind of wallpaper should I select for my 12-year-old daughter's attic bedroom with a sloping ceiling?

Designs Note Importance Of Garages

Students of home building report there is an increased trend toward making the garage an integral part of the house design. This may be done in one of several ways.

The simplest method is to build an attached garage. It is economical because one wall serves for both the garage and the house. It is connected directly to the house by a door, so it is not necessary to go outside when using the car.

In a two-story house the garage may be directly under a bedroom wing. In this construction it is important that the garage ceiling be insulated, which may be done by plastering over insulating board lath. Finishing both walls and ceiling in this way will provide extra protection for the car, regardless of where the garage is one that is connected to the house by a breezeway. Properly planned, this construction will tie house and garage together so that even a small house will look large and substantial.

The garage should be at least 10 feet wide and 19 feet deep. The larger it is the more space will be available for storing bicycles, garden tools and the like.

Cocoa Color New Pine Panel Finish

Looking for a different finish for your pine paneling? For one wall or for accent effects give a thought to cocoa color.

After sanding, cleaning and filling of nail holes, apply one coat of stain made with one part white shellac and three parts of alcohol tinted with fast scarlet, fast orange, fast yellow and jet black stain powders soluble in alcohol. Vary amounts to suit your taste.

When dry, rub lightly with 3/0 steel wool. Brush surface clean, apply two coats of water-clear lacquer and wax.

You'll have a dark, rich background finish to give importance to chinaware or pictures.

Choosing Wallpaper

When you're choosing wallpaper bear in mind that a small-sized pattern won't overpower a small room while a large pattern will.

Solid Supports Mean Long Life For Building Roofs

A soundly constructed roof deck is considered as important to the life of a roof as a soundly constructed foundation is to the entire house. Roofing material cannot be expected to give its full service if the deck which supports it is in poor condition.

A wood roof deck should be constructed of well-seasoned tongue and groove sheathing not more than 6 inches wide.

Wider sheathing boards are not recommended because they might shrink enough to buckle the roofing material after it has been applied. Boards should be tightly matched. Each board should be fastened to each supporting rafter with two 8-penny nails, one through the face of the board and the other through its edge.

Badly warped boards or boards with excessively resinous areas or loose knots should not be used. Any defects noticed after the sheathing is applied should be covered with sheet metal patches before the roofing material is laid.

After all the boards are in place, the deck should be protected from dampness by a layer of asphalt saturated felt, not heavier than 15 pounds per square.

Protect Plumbing Against Freezing

To avoid frozen water pipes and costly damages to the house, the water should be shut off at the meter if the home is to be unoccupied and the furnace shut off even for one day in cold weather. In addition, all tanks should be completely drained, as should all pipes, radiators, boiler and the traps beneath sinks and lavatories. Water pipes in walls of uninsulated houses have frozen on un-

Your American Newspapers 'Light The Way Of Freedom'

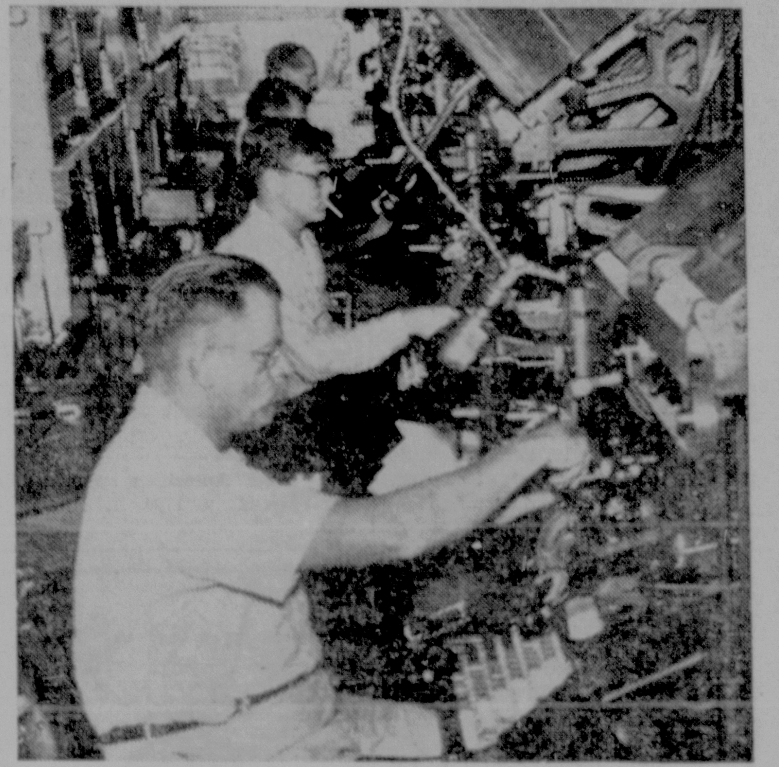

PRODUCTION OF THE MODERN newspaper entails not only heavy capital investment but a tremendous amount of operating costs in the way of payroll, newsprint, rental charges for varied services, features and special equipment. All of these, plus the men and women, team up each day at The Daily Record to carry out the National Newspaper Week slogan of "Light The Way to Freedom" for its readers. The top panel of pictures start with the newsroom, (left) production center of copy dealing with major, state and national occurrences. Shown in action are John F. Hill, news editor; J. Peter Olwyler, reporter; Jim Riley, sports editor;

Mrs. Horace Westbrook, social editor and A. F. Everitt, reporter. Center shows General Manager Merle Ostrom and Horace G. Heller, editor, discussing a story being received on Associated Press teletype. At right are the men who set the type at linotype machines. Four of the battery of five machines are shown. Operators are John Shupp, Forrest Cory, Lester Rouzer and Art Barnes. These are the major operations involved in preparing news copy for the newspaper pages.

shows work on composition of ads from prepared layout copy with Floyd Warner, an apprentice and Ora Bonser, a journeyman combining type and cuts. Like all operations involving humans, newspaper people make errors. At right is Mrs. Kenneth Repsher, proofreader of all news and advertising copy, who eliminates these errors. These people, like everyone concerned with production of The Daily Record, devote their skills in a team-work to turn out a completely new and fresh viewpoint on everything from wars to fashions.

PRODUCTION DEPARTMENT OF CREATING a newspaper involves all types of typographical skills, one of the oldest and most respected professions. It is not with artistry of a sort which calls for years of apprenticeship before the title "journeyman" is conveyed on a printer. At left Russell Williams of The Daily Record's day-force staff is getting ready to take a proof of an advertisement which appears in today's paper. The proof is read and checked for accuracy in spelling and as to layout provided by the advertising department. Center shows a force of men at work making up the pages of pictures, types of news stories and advertisement. At left is Frank Doleiden, night foreman. Others are Robert Carlton, apprentice and Elmer Goucher. Doleiden is getting ready to push a full page to a cart which moves it to stereotype room where (right) Frank Barnes takes a mat of each page. The mat is cast with hot lead into a semi-cylindrical plate which goes on the press for printing.

BIG PLATES ARE PLACED ON THE press shortly after 2 a.m. Papers roll off to mailing forces who first prepare for subscribers who do not receive their papers by carrier. Carrier papers are next prepared for boys who start out in early morning hours for local homes of The Daily Record readers. Business office, where billing of all types, subscriptions and circulation matters, classified advertising and fiscal control operations is shown at center. In this group are Marie Heller, Gertrude Miller, Jean Derr, Mrs. Ruth

Brown, manager of business office, and Mrs. Betty Petersen. All of these pictures, which show most, but not all of the force and equipment involved in production of this newspaper, were taken by Leslie B. Carlton, photographer and operator of the Fairchild Engraver which he is setting to produce the plastic cuts reproducing these photographs. Mr. Carlton takes the photographs, develops them, makes prints, then produces the cuts. Photographs often tell a story themselves and always add to the effectiveness of news.

Panel Discusses Newspaper Week At Kiwanis Meeting

National Newspaper week was observed by the Stroudsburg Kiwanis club at the Penn-Stroud hotel yesterday afternoon when a panel discussion was presented during which the importance of newspapers and freedom of the press were emphasized.

Merle C. Ostrom, program chairman, presented the subject in a brief outline, stating the slogan was "Your Newspaper Lights the Way to Freedom" and introduced the members of the panel. A. F. Everett was the other member of the committee.

Alfred W. Munson, principal of Stroudsburg High school, was the moderator. Others were Herbert B. Crane, representing business; Ralph E. Bender, member of the faculty of East Stroudsburg High school, education, and Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the church.

Mr. Munson traced the history of furnishing news way back in the late 1600s, explained methods employed and told of the earliest newspapers published in this country. He brought out many facts including the harassment of early editors through censorship.

Mr. Crane injected much humor into his remarks during which he analyzed the makeup and contents of The Daily Record. He concluded by questioning what would happen if we did not have our daily papers. He declared that if censorship interfered with newspapers, the battle would be transferred to the people who would be compelled to battle for the newspaper.

In his address, Mr. Bender after telling the number of city newspapers read in the community, declared he was not a radical, but a non-conformist and said we read the wrong type of literature. In this connection he told of 100,000 books being taken from the library here in a year, but that more people read The Record than that. He said newspapers and magazines should play a more prominent part in education.

Speaking of propaganda carried by newspapers, he pointed out this was good and bad and there should be a careful choice of the newspapers read.

Rev. Campbell commended the cooperation of The Record in church work and the valuable assistance he had received from it. He compared the strictly censored news handed out behind the "iron curtain" with that from the free press of this country which gives the public the facts for the assimilation of the readers and appealed to the will power of the people to properly digest it. The effect on emotions were outlined and he declared newspapers play a tremendous role in preserving our freedom.

Another feature of the meeting was the club member birthday party for the 39 members who had had natal days in the past six

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Seems as if we had a lot to talk over — but that was before the Giants won the game yesterday afternoon in the ninth inning. Since then nobody will talk about anything else. Sort of the story book ending that people like — maybe because it gives them the hope that their problems may somehow reach an equally happy conclusion.

But such discussion belongs on the sport page — and I'm not quite sure where the story of the ghosts in the Historical Society museum belongs.

In the midst of all the hilarity of the Woman's Club supper the other night, I went downstairs — and the lights were shining faintly through the half-open door of the museum. Did make you think of ghosts, sort of — since Col Stroud used to be mighty fond of entertaining, and seemed as if he might have opened the door to listen to the chatter in what used to be the front bed-room.

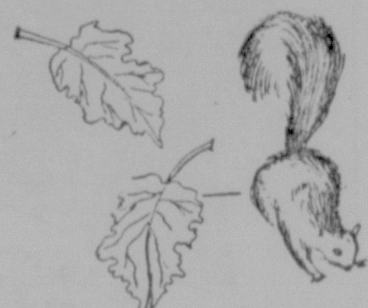

Anyway, that wild surmise turn out more right than wrong. If it wasn't Col Stroud who'd come home, it was his waistcoat — one which he'd worn when he came to this country in 1664. Some of his descendants—Nuna Snyder's father among them — were just turning over the precious moment to Mrs. Horace Walters, curator of the museum.

That, together with the cape which Daniel Stroud's wife had worn, and which lay casually over the old hunt breakfast table, really brought the original owners close. They're going to have a busy winter though, if they keep track of all the festivities in the old house.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:05 a.m.

Aux. To Medical Societies Have State President Here

Mrs. Albert F. Doyle, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, was the guest speaker at the luncheon of the Women's Auxiliaries to the medical societies of Monroe, Carbon and Northampton counties held at Linden Court yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Doyle stressed the part which the physicians wives could play on both the national and local level. The auxiliary, she pointed out supports the Medical Benevolence Fund of the State medical society, which is used to aid incapacitated physicians and their dependents.

They have also been asked to contribute to the National Fund for Medical Education, being raised by the doctors of America, to aid financially distressed medical schools. In urging support of the fund, she said that it is a means of proving that "the voluntary way is the American way and that we are not giving merely lip service to preserve for those who follow our husbands in the profession, the same freedom from Federal controls."

She urged that county auxiliaries not duplicate the work of other organizations but contribute to health activities in the Red Cross, Community Chest, hospital aid work and school health programs. Another project for auxiliaries is the nurse recruitment program. Pointing out a shortage of 60,000 nurses even now, she said that as wives of physicians, the women are in a position to interest young women in the nursing profession.

Members of the Monroe county auxiliary who attended the luncheon included Mrs. John Lettner, Mrs. T. I. Metzger, Mrs. Philip Enrig, Mrs. Frederick Jones, Mrs. C. L. Veikoff, Mrs. W. E. Levering, Mrs. Paul Shiffer, Mrs. L. Reese, Mrs. John Martucci, Mrs. Marshall Metzger, Mrs. John Lim, Mrs. E. O. Hendrick, Mrs. Horace Butler and Mrs. W. H. Caulfield.

Life of Riley
By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

A mighty smash into the left field bleachers by the "Socking Scott" Bobby Thomson, climaxed the greatest comeback in baseball history yesterday, as the four-base blow enabled the New York Giants, a team beaten 10-0 only the day before, to down the Brooklyn Dodgers and win the National League pennant, and the strength of three victories in the best of three playoff series. Not only did the blow bring the Giants into the World Series, but elevated Thomson to a hero's role, a position he once dominated until a two-year slump dropped the Staten Island resident to the rank of an also-ran.

Thomson, a transplanted outfielder, lifted the Giants from the brink of hopeless defeat when he lined the second pitch served up by reliever Ralph Branca into the bleachers high over left fielder Andy Pafko's head. It was a wallop that will be discussed for many years everytime "clutch" hits are mentioned. The Giants were trailing 4-2 at the time and starter Don Newcombe had departed for the showers after giving up three hits in the same frame.

A scene such as never before witnessed at the Polo Grounds, broke loose as Thomson was hoisted to the shoulders of his teammates and carried a short distance toward the club house, as members of the crowd, previously warned to remain in their seats until the players reached the clubhouse, broke through the lines of attendants and policemen to join in the victory celebration. It wasn't an ordinary victory, an ordinary National League pennant and certainly it wasn't just an ordinary baseball team that had brought the senior circuit bunting to the Polo Grounds, high on Coogan's bluff.

Even the cold waters of the Harlem River must have had the feeling of warmth that goes with a victory, the type of which the Giants scored yesterday. The team was apparently hopelessly beaten going into the do-or-die stage of the ninth frame and the heart-tugging finish that Leo Durocher's pupils had put on seemed ready to flow down the same Harlem River that laps at the very foundation of the Polo Grounds. All seemed lost to the average baseball fan, but evidently in major league circles the hungry clubs don't quit until the final out.

A few words from Durocher, before the pilot took his position on the third base coaching lines, brought the Giants out swinging from the heels like a desperate fighter. Singles by Alvin Dark and Don Mueller and a ringing double to left by "Whitey" Lockman gave Newcombe to the showers and set the stage for Thomson's historic blow off Branca, the gentleman now sporting the goat's horns. It took only a few minutes to decide the pennant winner, after the two clubs, from the opposite ends of New York, had battled through 157 grueling games for the National League's first prize.

Thomson was once the cream of the Giants' outfield corps, but a prolonged plate slump and the arrival of Willie Mays in New York sent the native of Scotland to the bench, from where he eventually emerged as the third sacker. Followers of the Giants have their hearts in their mouths every time a boulder is hit toward the hot corner, as yesterday's hero certainly isn't the fanciest fielder in the business. However, during the past two months Thomson has proven that for every run he boots in, he'll drive three across the plate.

Lockman had been urging Thomson to change his batting style for many months, and the slump ridden citizen finally agreed to adopt the "squatting" type stance that has enabled him to raise his average from somewhere around .220 to .294 during the past two months. It was the third sacker's hitting ability, along with that of Monte Irvin, that has made the pennant possible for the Giants, the club that was 13 and one-half lengths off the pace as late as August 11 and seemed hopelessly beaten with one out in the ninth inning of yesterday's terrific contest.

Dave Koslo, one of the most unpredictable hurlers in the National league, has been nominated to do the pitching for the Giants in spacious Yankee Stadium today, opposing the great Allie Reynolds, of double no-hit fame. Koslo has been either very good or very bad during the past campaigns, but since when the Yankees lose they favor southpaws, Dave may be just the guy to get the spirited Giants off to a flying start in the fall classic. Koslo hasn't been used much of late and it could be that this is his turn to be good.

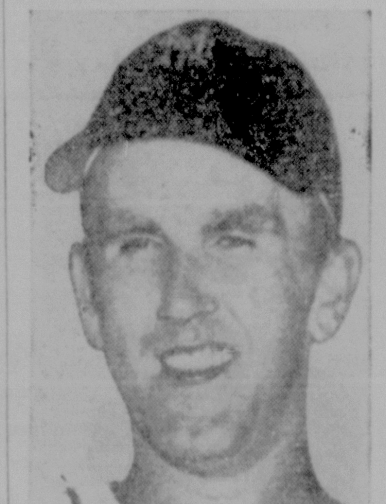

I see where the experts have the Yankees winning the series in any manner they see fit. However, I doubt very much if anyone of the writers contacted Durocher and his scrappy side-kicks before making any such rash statements.

Durocher Nominates Koslo To Open Against Yankees

By Orlo Robertson
New York, (AP)—Bobby Thomson, Scottish-born resident of metropolitan New York, wrote a story book finish to the spitting National League pennant race late yesterday and then pandemonium broke loose in the Polo Grounds and in the winning New York Giants dressing room.

Pitcher

Dave Koslo

"It was a high fast one and a little inside," Thomson shouted above the din of the dressing room noise. "I saw Branca let loose with his fast pitch and I was all set."

The Giants' dressing room was such confusion that hardly anyone could get in a word.

But out of the backslapping, noise and general hullaboo came: "Never saw a greater finish," declared Ford Frick, newly elected baseball commissioner. "And I have been watching games for more than 30 years."

"It'll be Dave Koslo tomorrow," shouted Leo Durocher as he tried to catch his breath.

Sad Note

There was only one note of sadness to the Giants' first pennant since 1937. Don Mueller, whose single to right field kept the New Yorkers ninth inning rally going, will not be able to play the first and probably the second game of the World Series opening against the Yankees today.

Mueller sprained his left ankle going into third on "Whitey" Lockman's double to the left field corner.

"Don will be out for two or three days," said Dr. Anthony Palermo, team physician.

"In that case with Allie Reynolds pitching for the Yankees, 'Hank' Thompson will be in right field," said Durocher.

Mueller lay on a table while Dr. Palermo looked at the ankle and joined with the Giants in shouting meaningless words.

Into the jam-packed, hot dressing room came Warren Giles, new president of the National league; Manager Charley Dressen of the Dodgers; Jackie Robinson the Dodgers' great second baseman and Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn, to heap their words of praise on a team that was considered out of the race less than two months ago.

"I told you we'd finish one, two," Dressen said as he congratulated Durocher. "I was right only we were second."

Then came Robinson to join with his manager in wishing Durocher and the Giants well in their coming series.

Statement
"I don't feel sorry for myself," said Robinson, "but I do feel bad that we let the Brooklyn fans down."

Somebody grabbed Durocher around the shoulder and yelled that he did a great job of master minding in the ninth inning.

"I sure did," said Durocher jokingly. "I didn't take much master minding to get those hits that set it up for Bobby."

Somebody else told Leo he had done a great job.

"Not me," retorted Leo quickly. "The men who did the great job are in the other room."

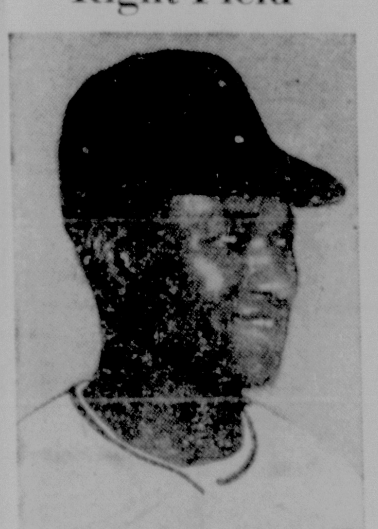

"We were lucky to win it," Durocher said as he sat down at his desk, wiped the sweat from his brow and collected his thoughts.

"That's the toughest ball club in America next door," he said, nodding toward the Dodgers' dressing room. "When you beat them you know you're beating a great team."

Asked if he had said anything

Right Field

Henry 'Hank' Thompson

on the bench before the start of the Giants' ninth, Durocher replied:

"I told the boys we had three big outs left. You haven't given up all year so don't give up now. Let's get some runs. And the reply, almost in a chorus was, 'we'll get the Bums.'" for standing room go on sale this morning.

The only thing in baseball's past that rivals the feat of the Giants was the rise of the Boston Braves in 1914, in last place on July 4. But the Braves, miracle team that they were, had only to overcome an 11-game handicap and they started much earlier to do it than did the Giants. Since August 11, the Giants have won 39 out of 47 games, for an incredible percentage of .830, overcoming a Brooklyn lead of 13½ games.

Yet the Yankees were 8-5 favorites to beat them in the big show because their good pitching staff was well rested since clinching the American league pennant last Friday.

Manager Leo Durocher, baseball's onetime "bad boy" and now sitting on top of the world—will send Dave Koslo (10-9) to the mound against the Yankee ace, Allie Reynolds (17-8).

The World Series will seem an anticlimax after the National league race. It will pit the New York Yankees, proud and perennial champions, against a young and dashing Giant club that started the season with a dismal 11-game losing streak and then fought its way upward.

The first two games of the series will be in Yankee stadium in the Bronx, which seats 70,000, and then play will move to the Polo grounds, across the East river on the island of Manhattan. The Polo grounds holds 55,000. Two or if it need be three games will be played at the Polo grounds in the best four-out-of-seven series, and then play moves back to Yankee stadium if the world title has not yet been settled.

Unless weather intervenes, play in the series will be on these consecutive days:

Today and Friday, Yankee stadium; Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, Polo grounds; Tuesday and Wednesday, Yankee stadium.

All World Series seats have been sold and scalpers are asking two and even three times face value which is $6 for each reserved seat and $8 for each box seat.

This is the 18th time the New York Yankees have won the American league championship, the Giants won the National league title 15 times previous to this year.

In the World Series, the Yankees have won 13 times and lost only four. The Giants have won four World Series and lost eight, three of their National league championships coming when no series were played.

The Giants and the Yankees have met five times before in the World Series, and the Yankees hold the edge, three to two.

Sands Gains Decision Over Olson In Initial U. S. Bout

Chicago, (AP)—Australia's Dave Sands, shopping for a shot at middleweight champion "Sugar Ray" Robinson's title, made his American debut with an unanimous, but dull ten-round win over Hawaii's Carl "Bobo" Olson before a derisive Chicago Stadium crowd last night.

Sands weighed 164½, Olson 163½.

Weary
Sands, British Empire middleweight, got arm-weary from his ineffective punching of Olson. In the closing seconds he was clutching onto the foe he beat in a 12-rounder last year in Australia.

Referee Norm McGarfield and Judge Dr. C. Allen Frankel saw it for Sands, 55 to 45 under the Illinois Scoring System. Judge Ed. Klein voted in favor of Sands, 58 to 42.

Barksdale agreed to a two-year contract with radio and television tie-ins, the Bullets said. The exact terms were not disclosed but Barksdale is known to have turned down a previous $17,000 offer.

Experience
Barksdale started for two years at UCLA, where he graduated in 1947. The next two years he paced the Oakland, Calif. Bittners to the National A.A.U. championship. He was on the U.S. basketball team in the Pan-American games last February.

Reports Given At Meeting Of Church Vestry

Considerable business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the vestry of St. John's Lutheran church on Tuesday night, when the pastor, Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson presided.

Martin A. Vogt, chairman of the every member visitation committee made a report which showed splendid result from this effort.

The report of the treasurer, C. A. Kitchen indicated that nearly all of the apportionment had been paid and Lutheran World Action for 1951 was paid in full and the major portion of the Christian higher education appeal was paid.

Mrs. Edith Baehr was accepted as a new member. It was unanimously decided that the Released Time school will be continued after school hours since so much good has been accomplished through this effort.

The pastor announced that the Palm Sunday confirmation class would be organized Friday at 4 p. m. in the church school room. Plans were also completed for the World Wide Communion Sunday at which time the Rev. Albert Staedeman, assistant editor of The Lutheran, would bring the message and assist the Pastor in the administration of the Sacrament.

A group of the vestrymen will attend the big rally at Muhlenberg college Friday night when Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America will be principal speaker.

A donation was also voted for the purchase of a new station wagon for the field worker of the Children's bureau in the Allen-town conference.

Plans were also made for an additional choir room for use by the junior and chancel choirs of the church and the secretary was instructed to secure prices on cotas for the junior choir, and to arrange for choir mothers to serve the junior group. Other routine business was transacted. The officers look for an every member communion next Sunday, when the Sacrament will be administered at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

OPS Executive Will Address Resort Group

Philadelphia—John F. O'Neill, district executive officer of the Office of Price Stabilization, will speak at the annual election meeting of the Eastern Pocono Resort association, at Rip Van Winkle, Redica Drive, six miles north of East Stroudsburg, at 8:30 p. m. today. William J. Altier, president of the resort association, announced last night.

The meeting was arranged last week by Altier at the semi-annual meeting of the Vacation Bureau of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce at which O'Neill spoke. Altier invited O'Neill to address the group in order to clear up the responsibilities of the resort hotel owner and operator under the restaurant regulation, CPR II.

Altier pointed out that it was the policy of the association to keep the members informed on issues vital to their own and the national interest. "We want to have our members 100% in compliance with government regulations and we believe meetings of this kind are one of the best ways to accomplish this purpose," he said.

Apply For License

Irving Sommer, East Stroudsburg, and Joan Elizabeth Melick, Stroudsburg, applied yesterday in Monroe county court house for a marriage license.

Dr. Koehler Gives Talk At Meeting

Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, member of the faculty of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, was guest speaker before the Monroe County Foremen's and Industrial club at the meeting at the Monroe County YMCA this week. He discussed "Toward A World Wide Democracy."

There were 71 in attendance representing 15 local industries who were served dinner by the members of the Y Mothers' club.

A report was given on the underprivileged boys' camp fund which is one of the prominent projects of the club in which it was stated there was a balance of $68 from the fund raised for sending boys to camp the past summer. This sum will be set aside and will be utilized for the same purpose the summer of 1952.

Horace Walters, chairman of the program committee, presented the speaker, Dr. Koehler, who declared there were three different types of economy in the world today—capitalism, socialism and Communism. Carl Marx, the speaker said predicted the overthrow of capitalism to socialism which didn't transpire fast enough and Communism followed.

The speaker gave various illustrations of the manner in which the economies work out and then told that capital is something that was saved voluntarily in the past then invested and used productively. Communism, he said does not give the profits to the people, but hold it back and then use it to build productively. This he said was a dictatorship and permits no other choice. Capitalism, the speaker pointed out gives us the goods and only under this system can there be plenty. A school of thought is required to overcome Communism, the speaker said.

Dr. Koehler spoke of arming to the hilt adding that an arms race leads to war, never to peace. He spoke of the high cost of arming and that it would lead to lowering the standard of living. He said 35 per cent of income is needed in taxes to support the arms program. He didn't suggest cutting the arms program today, stating that it would require added controls.

To institute reforms in capitalism might lead to socialism, but not necessarily Communism. He didn't believe Britain would stay socialist when they have enough goods to give away.

Speaking of the U. N., he said we cannot stop war among the big countries, each has responsibilities according to its constitution. To be effective, they must have power, he said.

Dr. Koehler expressed the hope that we could prove to the aggressors that the cost is so great it will not try it. He believed in a system of collective authority, that while we are not perfect, we should stop insulting our friends (allies) and be more tolerant to our allies. Communism, he declared, flourishes under a system of chaos and might. We must fight for a system of law and order, the speaker concluded.
